1. Claims 3-5,7,8,11 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected group, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 5.
2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4) because reference character "21" has been used to designate both a bolt and a rubber plate in figure 3. A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.
3. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the plurality of guide plates, as in claim 10, must be shown or the feature canceled from the claim. No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.
4. Claims 1,2,6,9,10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

In the embodiment where the buffer plate is contacting the lift plate (line 20, page 6), it is not clear how the device is held together.

5. Claims 1,2,6,9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1 and 2 contradict one another. Claim 1 states that the buffer plate is affixed to the lift piece. Claim 2 seems to indicate that there is a "fixation member" between the buffer plate and the lift piece. Because of this contradiction, it is not clear what weight to give these recitations.

On line 7 of claim 1, the term "the insertion hole" lacks proper antecedent basis. It is not clear which of the plural holes previously recited is being referred to.

On line 2 of claim 6, "a lift" should be "the lift" for proper antecedent basis.

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(e) the invention was described in-
(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

7. Claims 1 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ito, who shows a pin kit with all of the recited limitations including a lift piece (engraving apparatus, line 15, column 1), a fixation member (3), a buffer plate (5) having a resilient member (6) on its bottom side. Also shown is a guide plate having plural pin holes (4a,4d) and one grooving pin (7) which abuts the resilient member (6).

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ito, who shows all of the recited limitations except the resilient member is made of one piece rather than two, and the guide plate is made of one piece rather than two. However, the courts have ruled that "the unity or diversity of parts would depend more on the choice of the manufacturer...than on any inventive concept" In re Lockhart, 90 USPQ 214. In this case, there appears to be no inventive concept to make it out of one piece or two. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have made resilient member out of two pieces, and the guide plate out of two pieces, as a simple manufacturing choice.

10. Claim 2 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

11. Note from the Examiner. One simple way to distinguish over the Ito reference is to claim plural pins engaged in the plural insertion holes.

12. Made of record but not relied on are patents to Way et al., Slack and O'Neill, showing pertinent grooving pin mountings.

13. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Ken Peterson whose telephone number is 703-308-2186.
